Sub: Review of IUC TRAI

Sir,

Mobile phones are now the lifeline for the country's poor. They need affordable communication,

A revival of IUC therefore would be a direct blow on the aspiration of country's poor. It is also against the falling trend of telecom prices. Since IUC was set to go from next year.

We are apprehensive that continuation of IUC for a further time period will certainly result in increase in call rates which will directly affect the customer.

We request TRAI should keep the interest of poor consumer paramount as it leads about continuing IUC since any increase in cost would be detrimental for the poorest customer.
